

SIXTEEN WOMEN ON DELEGATION

Janesville Has Alternate to Republican National Convention—State Committee Meets.

Mrs. Arthur J. Harris, of Janesville, and Mrs. J. E. Barr, of Geneva, were elected alternates to the national republican convention at Chicago, by the state central committee at Milwaukee yesterday. Both names were presented by O. S. Morse, member of the committee from this district. In presenting the names, Mr. Morse took occasion to say a few words about the district as the one oasis in the state where the uneducated delegation won. He also said that it was time that the ambitions of one man and his determination for political domination should not constantly be used to disrupt and divide the party.

The La Follette program which was to have all the alternates elected as La Follette partisans failed to win, 8 to 6. In the selection 16 of the alternates are women and of the men 5 are identified with the La Follette forces and the other five are supporters of the uninstructed program. Senator Wilcox in a letter asked that the alternates be women. Mrs. H. M. Youmans made a witty and earnest speech on the occasion of the first entrance of the women of the state into the party organization.

FIRE CAUSES $400 LOSS AT GAS PLANT

The roof of the purifying house at the New Gas Light company's main plant on North Bluff street was destroyed by fire shortly after midnight last night, an estimate of the damage being given today as $400. A spark entering through a ventilator is believed to have caused the blaze as the roof is covered with corrugated iron.

Chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze in the interior, while a stream of water stopped it on the outside. The alarm was "still" at 12:05 this morning.

The plant is experiencing no trouble from the blaze, I. F. Wortendyke said today.

First Play Day at Avon Big Success

Rock county's first play day was celebrated yesterday in the town of Avon when a community picnic, program and games were held in and about the town hall of Avon, under the direction of Miss Marion Moore, district 5, and Miss Clara Helgren, district 2, rural school teachers. Recently the state department of education issued a bulletin suggesting that an annual play day be established in every town when school children and all persons in the community would gather for a picnic and play under the supervision of the rural teachers of the town.

More than 70 residents of Avon gathered at the town hall yesterday morning. The first number of the day was a baseball game between Miss Helgren's and Miss Moore's pupils, the former winning by a score of 33 to 34. Circle ball, and puss-in-the-corner were played by the girls, following this with the older folks playing such games as last couple cut, and partaking in relay sack, three legged and other forms of racing.

A picnic dinner was served in the

50-PIECE SAMSON BAND PROPOSED; 20 ALREADY SIGNED

With 20 experienced musicians in line and more expected to sign up this month, organization of a Samson tractor company band is now assured according to officials of the welfare department and P. W. Shupe, who has been appointed chairman of the committee on organization.

"There is no reason why we cannot have a 50-piece band, one of the best in the state, by the end of the summer," Mr. Shupe said today. "We had a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. last night for which 20 men turned out, all of them appearing enthusiastic over it. We will have our first rehearsal next Friday night at the plant."

Mr. Shupe, in the Samson efficiency department, is a saxophonist with experience in two bands—Fairbanks-Morse, Beloit, and Barber-Coleman, Rockford.

It is hoped to have the band in shape to give public concerts beginning in the fall. The plan is to draw from it a Samson orchestra to play at the company's functions during the winter.

A law passed by the last legislature makes it the duty of the town or village board or common council of every city in Wisconsin to see to it that the grave of every soldier or a soldier's widow is properly and decently cared for, the county to pay the certified expense.

Must Decorate Graves.
Hosea M. Root, Madison, Patriotic Instructor of the State Department of the G. A. R., in a recent letter to post Patriotic instructors, under the title, "Neglected Centuries," writes: "All over the country today there are obscure little cemeteries that are apt to be neglected. This ought not to be. In their rest some of the bravest of our comrades. I know of some such burial places, and so do most of you. It should be our sacred duty that, so far as we are able, every such grave has upon it both the flag and flowers on Memorial Day. Also, not one of them should be without a government headstone. It is furnished by the government, free, freight prepaid. I will see that blank applications for stones are sent to all who will write to me for them."

Observed in Schools.
Memorial Friday will be observed in Janesville schools on May 23. Programs appropriate to the occasion will be presented.

BIG VICTORY FOR GOOD ENGLISH IS SCORED IN CITY

Good English week came to a successful termination yesterday with grades in all schools giving programs pertaining to the use of good English. This is the first time in this city that a week has been set aside and extensive preparations made for "Good English" and its success insures the observance of the week annually.

The school is the best place to start teaching good English, as the habit of its use is formed and a good example is set," said Supt. H. H. Faust. Never before this week have school children been so careful to speak correctly, as they were quickly corrected by their school mates at the least slip. Even the teachers had to be on their guard yesterday, as the pupils were allowed to tag them during the day, and most all of them got a tag or two.

Twelve thousand tags were made for the distribution throughout the graded and high schools and all of them were used. Each child was given a tag and a tag to the person of slang brought a tag to the person and some of them were loaded down with tags.

Striking posters were made by the grade school children of the city and in almost every downtown window where they remained all week. Miss Edith Sturtevant deserves much credit for the supervising and tag of the posters, which were original in idea and design.

Although the use of good English was especially urged during the week, the habit was formed by many, with noticeable results.

Miss E. E. Lenore Casford, of the Washington school, was chairman, and Miss Grace Padley was chairman of the high school campaign.

DOCTORS AMPUTATE FRANK KELLY'S ARM

Man Injured at Samson Sub Station Wednesday in Serious Condition.

Surgeons attending Frank Kelly, electrician, injured at the Samson sub-station Wednesday morning when he came in contact with a high tension wire, were compelled to amputate the man's left arm today. This afternoon the hospital reports Kelly's condition, "poorly."

Various versions of the accident have been given. One is that he slipped too near the wire, carrying 31,000 volts during its test period. Another draws to the edge of the building from which he fell to the ground, striking the wires. It is also said that Kelly's alighting on his head, caused the flow of good which has ceased momentarily as the electrical energy rushed through his body.

FARMERS OF TURTLE VOTE TO LEAVE GRAIN ELEVATOR TO BELOIT
Farmers of Turtle Township in a meeting held last night to consider the location of a grain elevator at Beloit, voted to let the Chamber of Commerce of Beloit go ahead with its original plan, and let the farmers raise the finance the project. The farmers asserted their willingness and readiness to use the structure in the future, if it should be better prices than they are getting elsewhere.

The Chamber of Commerce, according to the plan, will have to take charge of the elevator. This manager will, besides getting a nominal salary, be obliged to put in $2,000 towards the construction and maintenance of the building, which is expected to cost between $15,000 and $25,000.

According to the plans, the stock will be non-interest bearing and will be retired from the profits of the project. The security will be taken by the merchants who are backing the idea solely with the view of creating a grain market in Beloit. After the stock is retired, the ownership of the elevator will fall into the hands of the manager.

WAGE ADVANCE WAVE HITS TEXTILE MILLS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Boston, May 15.—A wave of wage advance announcement to become effective May 31 rolled in today from New England textile centers indicating that the recent increase would extend to virtually all the 300,000 textile operatives in the district. Wherever the amount of the advance was definitely stated, it was 15 percent. This will bring the level of textile wages, already at the highest stage in history, more than 100 percent higher than it was four years ago.

Wages in the woolen industry but not including the proposed advance have increased by approximately 150 percent over those of 1915, according to calculations by manufacturing interests. Earnings of loom fixers under the scale now prevailing have not uncommonly run to $50 a week and of weavers to $40 and $45. The increase gives the 200,000 operatives in this section an average of $25 per week. Prices for the products are the highest ever received although in recent weeks it is said a decrease in demand has set in.

A Very Poor System

A man owed the sum of $13.67 to a neighbor. He went over to pay the debt, offering a $20.00 bill for the amount.

The neighbor did not have the proper change in his pocket. He ransacked the house and finally got the amount needed together. But every member of the family was called upon for a part—even the baby's bank furnished a few pennies.

When the man was gone they tried to return to each one the amount he had furnished—a nuisance of course. How different this transaction would have been if the man had kept his money in the bank. A check would have been given for the exact sum and the deal would have been done—in a business like way.

This day, May 15, 1847, Gen. Winfield Scott, with the American army enter Puebla, Mexico, on the march to the city of Mexico. With his small army he had started from Vera Cruz to fight his way to the Mexican capital and succeeded. The taking of Puebla, the largest city on the route, was one of the most important initial achievements.

REMEMBER THE MEN WHO WORE THE BLUE.

It seems a long time ago. But as measured by the span of years it is really but yesterday when the grand army of men in blue marched in review back from the front victorious—the most stupendous parade of the Spirit of Liberty ever staged.

That army had written with pen of blood, with bayonet and bullet into the indestructible fabric of the universe, that all men were created equal. They had put the seal on the Declaration of Independence. There were thousands of others who did not come back. They had died there on the southern fields or in camps, and plain white slabs, row on row, covering great acres, mark the place where they sleep. Other thousands have passed away since. We have built monuments to their memory, we have set apart a day each year to observe with eloquence and tears and flowers, the reverence and respect in which they are held.

Here and there throughout the nation, in neglected burial places, weeds and briars are growing over the graves of some of these dead veterans. Wisconsin, whose service in the war of the rebellion, forms page after page of her great history, has made such a thing illegal and calls upon the officials of the county and cities and villages to see that no grave is neglected. They must be decorated and marked. But it is not necessary to make the law here in Rock county. We know where the dead sleep and we will give them due honor.

Not alone, however, will the graves of the men who wore the blue be remembered. There are other dead—men of the khaki, our boys, the best blood of the nation—men who served their country in camp and cantonment and on foreign fields, men who sleep in the Argonne, in Flanders, in Alsace, in the Rhine section, men who gave their lives for the Marine to the Vesle, men who gave their lives at Juvigny—all "beneath the crosses row on row that mark the place."

And between comes the smaller army which won freedom for Cuba and millions more of enslaved peoples. Memorial day is also for them. Let us not forget.

AN INSULT FROM THE VICE PRESIDENT.

Vice President Marshall addressed a Baptist convention at Richmond, Virginia, the other day. He was very specific on the things which the great religious bodies should do about influencing congress on high moral issues. The next evening he addressed the bar association of Virginia and before them declared that the prohibition amendment would not have received 20 votes in that body had the senate voted in secret. Mr. vice president Marshall has never been celebrated for either his great mental powers or his high statesmanship. He has made many most egregious political blunders, one remembered by the people of Wisconsin when he came into the state and spoke for Joseph Davies in 1918.

It may be readily believed that the vice president in his insult to the senate of the United States is quite wrong. It is rather possible that had the senate voted behind closed doors there would have been even more votes for the amendment. Because the liquor interests of the United States form the most powerful lobby and the strongest political pull of any interest bearing on both courts and congress. No moral movement has ever been so well organized. Every means and method to reach members of congress were used by the liquor interests. And that a man voted for the amendment was in spite of that pressure and the accompanying threat of political extinction, which the senators faced from the entrenched whiskey and beer combination.

Mr. Marshall may be vice president, but that is all he is. One reason why, in the illness of the president, greater effort was not made to put the vice president in charge of the government, is because Mr. Marshall is what he is; and what he is is well exhibited by his two recent speeches in the south. He is not even like Artemus Ward's monkey—"an amusin' cuss."

THE SOLIDITY OF JANESVILLE BANKS.

Statements of Janesville banks made this week under the call of the bank commissioner, are most satisfactory and a matter of congratulation are indicative of the soundness of finance in the city, and also showing the rapid increase of savings accounts.
For the first time in the history of Janesville the deposits in its banks have reached in excess of $10,000,000. The increase in deposits since the statements made in February are $356,248, and of that sum, let it be known and emphasized, $285,932 are savings deposits.
This is the most important showing of the reports. People are saving. The charge of extravagance and wasteful money-spending apparently does not hit Janesville very hard. Thrift is evidenced in the banks. Everyone of the banking institutions say that there is a daily increase in the number of these accounts. The young man as well as the older ones are saving and adding to the total testimony of thrift.
But the excellent condition of the banks of Janesville is also indicative of the trend of business. We are growing in size, in industrial importance, in strength of citizenship, in spirit of activity and general belief in the future.

Ten million dollars in the banks represent the business life blood of the community. Other banks in the county report gains, and among the sound and substantial counties of the state, Rock takes a leading place.

The Racine Journal-News calls attention to the grave fact that the new secretary of agriculture has decreed that officially they are "milk" and no longer "milch" cows. This will, we hope, reduce the price of milk to the consumer and is one of the most substantial reforms of the Wilson cabinet. Anyone who can do so great a benefit to the republic at one sweep of the pen is deserving more than passing mention as a candidate for the democratic nomination for president.

Perhaps the president vetoed the appropriation bill because it would lessen production of political documents. "Speed up production" is the motto of the administration—especially of useless literature.

"G. O. P. tries to split the foe," remarks a headline in the Milwaukee Journal. Never. We leave that to Mr. Wilson, Mr. Bryan and to some 23 senators, all of the democratic persuasion.

Hiram Johnson says he won't take the nomination as vice-president. All he has to do to stimulate his negative is to think of Vice president Marshall.

At the Nation's Capital

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1920 by Janesville Gazette)

Washington, D. C., May 15.—President Wilson is sharpening his veto pencil for the Knox peace resolution. In its present form even as amended by the senate, it is objectionable to the White House, but there have been so many vital changes since the measure passed the house that it may be a simple repeal of wartime laws when it comes out of the conference between both houses of congress. Therefore judgment must be suspended until the resolution actually comes before the senate, but unless further amendments are made it will be vetoed, and with the veto message will come the treaty of Versailles as the unfulfilled task of the senate.

Interest centers more upon what ground the president will choose for his veto message than in the possibility that he might sign the resolution and put to its inadequacy by referring the treaty of peace itself to the senate for action. Generally speaking, the president is said to contemplate vetoing the peace resolution on the ground that it distinctly interferes with the constitutional prerogatives of the executive in making peace with a foreign government.

While there might be no objection for instance in the repeal of war time laws from a domestic viewpoint, the president could contend that it deprives him of one of the most important weapons needed in negotiating peace with a foreign government. For one thing it endeavors to dispose of German property in the United States in the hands of Mr. Wilson's hands. The power to hold that property as a club over Germany in the event that a new negotiation for a treaty with Germany might later become necessary.

Senator Lodge himself has shrewdly withdrawn from the Knox resolution the request for a separate peace with Germany, thereby eliminating the patent objection which the executive could have raised, namely that the resolution is an effort to force the hand of the executive in negotiations with a foreign government by introducing legislative stipulations bearing upon the negotiations themselves. Senator Knox, too, recognized in the house resolution that the United States will require Germany to give America certain commercial rights, this being a matter, too, that could only be arranged by communication between the American executive and a foreign government.

But the dilemma for the president, it is recognized, comes from the fact that those democrats were willing to support a resolution simply repealing wartime laws. Yet Mr. Wilson and the democrats on Capitol Hill have not lately been in too close contact and the action of the latter is generally thought to have been of their own initiative. The president himself has declared once before that peace cannot be made by the action of congress and he is unlikely to sanction such a precedent at this stage of his controversy with congress over the respective rights of the legislative and executive branches of the government.

Mr. Wilson knows that in the convention at which the constitution of the United States was framed, the original article gave congress the right to "declare war and peace" but that the words "and peace" were eliminated by unanimous vote because it was contended that the legislative body would always be too unwieldy to conduct negotiations with a foreign government. Strangely enough, it was also argued that peace-making by congress would be difficult, if not embarrassing, because it would be a matter of debate, thus making impossible confidential exchanges held to be necessary to any quick or successful agreement.

The senate is due to pass the Knox peace resolution Saturday. The democrats have decided it would be wisest to let the resolution pass without debate so as to hasten the president's return to the return of the treaty of Versailles to the senate.

Then it will become necessary for the republican national convention at Chicago to express itself definitely on what action it proposes with reference to the treaty, and it will similarly compel the democratic convention to state its program with reference to the treaty. A simple negative announcement such as the Indiana republican convention has passed, might be sufficient while the treaty of Versailles is lodged in the White House pigeonhole, but when it is before the senate, an affirmative or negative course of action will become essential to the platforms of all political parties.

And that's when the trouble will begin as Bryan endeavors to commit the democrats to the Lodge reservations and as the president urges endorsement with the Hitchcock reservations; while at the same time Senator Hiram Johnson and Senator Borah insist that the treaty of Versailles be condemned, reservations and all, and Senator Lodge and his supporters endorse the treaty with the reservations agreed upon by the senate majority. Both Mr. Wilson and Mr. Lodge have had their way—the treaty is the big issue of the campaign.

JUST FOLKS

YOU.
What if another doesn't see
That shady little trick you do,
What if you gain the victory
And men award its prize to you
And think by skill you gained the crown,
There is one voice you cannot drown—
One little voice inside your breast
That never gives you any rest.
What if the whole world you deceive
And take its glory and its self,
This thought must ever make you grieve—
You have no power to cheat the self.
Though no one else knows how you won,
Or just what little trick was done,
And strangers praise you as you go,
Deep down within your breast, you know.
What if dishonor leaves no stain,
And all your friends shall think you fair,
If you have sold the truth for gain,
Think you that you shall cease to care?
The prize you hold will jar at you:
"I mark the hour you were untrue!"
A constant witness from the shelf—
You fooled the world, but not yourself.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

SPRING.
I love the joyous, balmy spring.
It permeates my soul,
It is so warm and buoyant
Another ton of coal.
I love to see the parsnip tops
Come peeping from the earth;
I couldn't eat parsnip for
All Russell Sage was worth.
I love to see the cooling pairs
Sit each day on the porch;
Why don't they out that nonsense out
Or do it after dark?
I love the loud-mouthed robin's chirp
Upon my sill each morn;
I'll shoot that daylight-saving bird
As sure as he was born.

Republican leaders are trying to make up their minds whether the new candidate for the presidential nomination is a Knox or a boost.

The trouble with the overall army is that everybody wants to be an officer and wear a tailor-made uniform.

COST TERRIBLE.
Doctor, doctor, please come quick.
Our pussy cat is awful sick.

And soaked it in a water pail.
Now it's stiff as it can be.
Doctor, please come quick and see.

But the fact is that up in Iceland and Norway and other places where the snow does not melt, there is a ski-jumping scene in a total failure.

Who's Who Today

SENATOR LENROOT.
Senator Irving L. Lenroot of Wisconsin is mentioned as a middle western dark horse to whom Hiram Johnson's strength might most profitably be added at the Republican national convention in Chicago.

Mr. Lenroot is for a government supervision of railroads that amounts to government control, but one step in this side of government ownership. He opposed the anti-strike clause in the Cullum bill, which would give the government the right to take over the railroads in case of a strike. He has been a leading advocate of laws for the conservation of natural resources.

In 1912 Lenroot won his first attention in a national political convention by a speech in behalf of Roosevelt. In the house, where he served five terms, he was recognized as one of its ablest members, and in the debates on the league of nations he soon achieved prominence. He has been Senator Lodge's chief lieutenant in defending the Lodge reservations. His position is different from numerous republican senators who voted for the reservations. He is put down as sincerely in favor of the league of nations qualified by the reservations; one of the few republican senators who voted against the amendment. On the other hand, some of the amendment's views the Old Guard would have to be convinced that a progressive of his type was absolutely necessary to hold the republican party together and win in order to consent to his nomination.

Homer in the Home

By FRÉDÉRIC J. HASKIN.

Washington, May 15.—If the shade of Shakespeare, of Homer, or any of the other immortal writers of the past, knew what the twentieth century thinks of his works, he can find out by referring to the filed reports of the Bureau of Education. Who are pursuing the home reading courses of the Bureau of Education.
There are 17 of these courses, but only three-fourths of the government's readers are registered for the course in classical books. This fact might pleasantly thrill the authors of the classics, but if they keep up with the times, they must notice that the dust is more apt to gather on their immortal works than on the novels of Robert W. Chambers and Ethel M. Dell.
Now and again a more daring mortal departs from adjectives and adverbs to insert an original idea into a report. Such a one is the young woman who thinks that the last chapter of Homer's Iliad must have been written by a printer, because the fate of Troy and that of Priam are only vaguely explained.

It is hard to say what Shakespeare would think of the reader who thinks it interesting to compare the humanity of Hamlet with that of Ophelia. Maybe he would to Shakespeare. Well, perhaps I did mean Hamlet to be crazy, but I forget now. You see, I—or was it Bacon?—have written so many plays.

Little Originality.
The great majority of impressions inspired by the classics are monotonously favorable. None of the readers seem to be pouring over antiquity for the unalloyed joy of unburdening a philistine soul in a scathing report. The Home Reading Division would certainly not sort of a report written in blunderous vein. On the other hand, it does feel that the American public is prone to put on a fixed attitude of mind, a sort of mental paralysis when it opens a classic. This precludes any unbiased or original thinking.

If people would only take up these books as they had never heard of them," said Miss Ellen Lombard, director of home reading. "If the reader would take up Shakespeare or Milton with an open mind, he might begin to like them for the qualities which appeal to him, and not spend his time trying to see what other people have found."

Those who send in reports do so because it is required if they are to receive a certificate for the course. Many more, outside of the 12,000 now registered as trying for certificates, send for the outlines and read without making reports.
Some of the government's readers are children as young as 12 and 13 years of age. Some are over 70. Some are college graduates, and many more never reached high school. The children's reports are especially interesting. They are not yet over-whelmed by the fact that "Ivanhoe" or "The Merchant of Venice" are on the immortal list, and they say what they think in emphatic terms.

All Look for Morals.
The greatest divergences of opinion seem to be over "Alice in Wonderland," which is on the list of books for girls. One girl of 12 thinks the book is a clever, but very old and queer. Another learned from it that "when people are out in the open air they have good dreams." Alice is good enough book for young children who like fairy tales, but that it is not interesting for older children where the adventures with magic bottles and cakes and says "it teaches me not to be curious and to think before doing things."

What cost of the Liberty bell postoffice?
A. A first class postoffice is one at which the yearly receipts are in payment of a salary to the postmaster of $2,000 a year or more. The receipts have to be $4,000 to justify this minimum salary.

When was the Liberty bell made and when?
A. This bell was ordered by the Province of Pennsylvania in 1752. It was cast in London. It arrived from England in 1752 and was hung in September of that year. It was removed in April and again in June, 1753.

Has the postmaster general always been a member of the president's cabinet?
A. While each presidential administration has had a postmaster general, such officers were not members of the cabinet before 1878.

What is the flag of the Zionists' organization?
A. This flag consists of a white ground having two light blue stripes, one near the top, one near the bottom of the flag. In the center of the white field are six points, forming a star. In speaking of several persons is a word used in the Bible?
A. "Kind" is a collective noun and takes a singular modifier. These persons should be "these sort." "Kind" should be "this sort."

Is it true that the peace treaty which was signed last year had no name in it?
A. The name of God does not appear in the treaty of peace between Germany and the allies and the United States. A great many non-Christian nations to whom the word "God" would not have the same meaning that it has to those of Christian faith, were parties to the treaty which probably accounts for the omission of the word.

What is a "red letter day?"
A. This is an expression used to convert the idea of a "red letter day" into a secular one. It is so-called because in the old liturgical books the greater Holy Days were always marked with red letters.

To what church does Dr. Frank Crane belong?
A. Dr. Crane was educated in the Wesleyan department of many years. He afterward joined the Congregational church.

Just where is Plume?
A. Plume is situated at the head of the Bay of Quarnaro, an inlet of the Adriatic, about 40 miles southeast of Trieste.

When was the parcel post first used in the United States?
A. The parcel post was first used in the United States Jan. 1, 1913.

THE DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

GLINDSEY LOVES HER JACK

June 24—A most interesting way up in Connecticut with Jack this morning and had a lovely time. There were no problems for the time we met till the time we got back here to the house.

He was so gay, and so attentive, and told me that even if he knew we loved one another, he wouldn't mind. You can't have problems when you hear the man you love say such blessedly true things. Now can you?

We had lunch at a dear old inn, and sat and dreamed half the afternoon away in the garden there. I realized that the moment for testing my Jack was not ripe and it seemed so foolish, anyhow, to spoil a perfect afternoon by any analysis. So I said, "I'll wait for a rainy day to do that!" One of those days when you are so blue and that even a new blow cannot make you any sadder.

Jack tells me that he bids fair to be a very rich man in a comparatively short time—the way things are going now. I told him that my life would be as smooth as a bed of roses and that I would have carte blanche for everything my heart desired. I said, "I am a dear, generous boy, you've no idea. And he does love me so."

Also told me that his firm had offered him an indefinite holiday when he wanted to go. He said that by the time he gets through with all his work he has laid out for himself the best he will just feel like taking that holiday. Besides, he wants to whisk me off to all sorts of supper dainties on our honeymoon. It is hard to believe that some day, not so very far off, I shall be my own mistress. No one to tell me when to get up in the morning (for I'm sure that Jack will never care how long I sleep), or when to come in and go out, what to wear and what to eat. I shall be free to cultivate it's a tremendous thought to grasp, I can tell you.

Between you and me, little book, I've already planned my first dinner after we are married, of course. We will be at some splendid hotel, and there'll be rose-colored lights (everything is rose-colored the first few weeks of the honeymoon, they tell me), and soft music and everything. And I will be queen of the occasion, and Jack's heart, and all that, and will languidly take up the menu card and order, as only a Mrs. can. I positively thrill at the thought. And Jack will lean over towards me, in a lover-like way, and say, "Is that all, dearest?" (I feel hands do that at the start, I feel sure). And I shall murmur back, "Yes, Jack, dear." Then he'll be so surprised at the grown-up sort of food I have selected. All the things that mother will not let me touch now for fear of ruining my rose-leaf complexion. Think of all this, I could almost sacrifice my career and independence, I think. But more of that later.

We ended the day by going to the movies, and holding hands all the time we were there. I think that I adore my Jack, honest truth.

PARENTS VERSUS CHILDREN

A young man who recently left his home in the country to enter one of the great American universities writes in part as follows:

"I am 19 years old and up to this time I have conducted myself as I know my parents would want me to. I make a good deal of sport about it and tell me I am going against nature. I have enjoyed my sport in the paper at home and still read it when they send me copies. I don't like to put a question like this to the doctor here, yet I would like to know the truth about this. I don't want to be known as a nut."

The actual weakness of the member of the male sex is not a matter to be his own master. He falls. He is lower than the beasts. Then he is miserable when he finds a man strong enough to be his own master. He takes a pride in his own resolution; he wants to drag the decent man to his own level. He conceals the most damnable lies such as that of "going against nature." Since when did Nature—Nature is God—since when did God claim that man was to sink below the beast level?

Any man who dares to assert that sexual immorality is natural or that it is essential to the physical or mental well being of a man is a wretched pervert and a black-hearted liar. The only proper answer to a real man is to call himself a "nut" because he lives as a man should live, is with the hardiest phalanx of the entire cord, in the forward face. There is no greater satisfaction than administering such a reminder to that particular type of contemptible whelp. He won't fight back because he hasn't the guts.

A man has precisely as good reason, need or excuse for sexual immorality as a woman.

Quick Meat Loaf—Three-quarters pound round or some other solid meat ground twice, three-quarters cup softened bread, one beaten egg, salt and pepper, lemon juice, a little nutmeg, onion juice, added to bread. Add the bread mixture to the meat. Shape in a bowl and sprinkle well with flour. Melt two teaspoons of butter in a frying pan, put in a sliced onion, cover and cook slowly, until the onion is a light brown; remove the onion; put the meat loaf into the hot pan with the floured side down. Cover and cook for 15 minutes, then sprinkle the top with flour, turn carefully, and cook for five minutes longer. Lift the meat loaf onto a platter with a cake turner, place the cooked onion on top and pour over the juice remaining in the pan. The meat loaf can be served either hot or cold.

Veal Loaf—Two pounds veal neck. Cook in boiling salted water until tender. Trim all meat possible from the bones. Add to white sauce. The sauce: Two tablespoons of flour, two tablespoons melted butter or butter substitute, salt and pepper, one and one-half cups milk. Scald milk, then add the butter and flour which has been made into a paste. Add seasoning.

Make an ordinary biscuit dough and mix with this into the dish pour the meat and white sauce combined, and put a covering of biscuit over the top, being careful that there are small openings in the top for the steam to escape. Bake in a medium oven for 20 minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes and peas.

Fishlet with Onion Sauce—Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, and tie it into a compact shape with strips of cloth. Place it in a deep kettle with boiling water (or part of the stock if possible). Add a soup bunch, several cloves and peppercorns. Simmer until tender, and salt when partly cooked. Take the meat from the liquid, remove the cloth and place it in a shallow baking dish. Bent one egg and spread over the beef, then sprinkle with coarse crumbs, and brown under a flame or in a hot oven.

For sauce—for a three-pound piece of meat—cut up half a dozen green onions and cook these with two tablespoons of butter substitute. Brown slightly. Stir in two tablespoons of flour, add a cup and one-half from the stock of brisket, and a tablespoon of minced parsley. Keep the sauce over hot water, or in a double boiler, until the meat is finished. Pour the sauce over the meat and serve.

SHERBETS

Pineapple Sherbet—Three lemons, one cup pineapple, three cups sugar, two quarts of water, whites of three eggs, whip the whites until stiff and add to the mixture after it is frozen; turn a while to thoroughly mix it.

Three-of-a-Kind—The juice of three lemons and three oranges, three bananas mashed fine, three scall cups of sugar, three cups of water, mix and freeze. Makes two quarts.

Lemon Sherbet—One cup sugar, one pint of milk, one lemon, partly freeze the milk and sugar, then add the strained juice of the lemon and freeze again. A little cream will improve it. This makes one quart. If liked one cup of pineapple or some other kind of fruit can be added.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I understand that you have printed a green soap recipe for getting rid of blackheads. I have watched for this recipe for some time. Will you kindly give it again for my benefit and for others who may want the same thing?

ROSE T.
The mixture of green soap, two ounces; distilled white hazel, two ounces.

Let this mixture stay on only a few moments and then wash off with hot water.

The green soap irritates the skin, as it sometimes will, use it every other day. Apply a cold cream.

Green soap may be purchased at any drug store. It is not a regular "cake soap," but is of about the consistency of custard.

Open each seed case with the point of a fine needle. The hardened mass must be pressed or picked out. Sterilize the needle before using it by dipping into boiling water, as the use of any instrument is dangerous unless thoroughly cleaned. Let me caution you about the use of carbolic acid. Unless the solution is very weak the acid will burn terribly.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman of 29 years. Two years ago my husband and I had a little trouble and his folks put him up to getting a divorce from me. I cannot forget him and that makes it hard for me. He comes to see me, but I do not let him stay long. He loves me. I know he goes with other girls.

Should I let him come as he does? It seems to me that I will be happier if you stop seeing your former husband. He does not love you deeply or he would suggest remarriage and would not be interested in other women. You must learn to be happy without him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I invited a school friend who moved out of town to come and spend two weeks with me. We had not seen each other in two years. She came and of course I planned everything I could so that she would have a good time. I invited my boy friend to bring another young man, the friend of his who was with us. We had a fairly good time, but I couldn't help noticing that my girl friend did everything she could to attract my boy friend and she paid no attention to the other boy.

The next day we went to church and during the whole service she looked at my boy friend. After church he worked home with us and scarcely spoke to me because he was so interested in her. This went on for about a week and then he got tired of her. She was so devoted that she sickened him and when he was invited to come to the house he refused.

Of course I was disgusted with my girl friend, too, but when I found she was not so much interested in him and he refused to come, I was so angry that I told him he need never come again if he didn't think that night. He didn't say a word. Now my girl friend has left town and I am trying to be friendly again. I like him better than any young man I know. Should I let him come back? IN DOUBT.

Yes, let him come back. He has probably learned a lesson and knows now that you stand the test of time better than some other people. He must feel in a ridiculous position and shows courage to ask to come back.

OUTSIDE BUILDING CONTRACTORS MAKE INVESTIGATIONS HERE

Home building contractors in increasing numbers are conducting investigations here. Word of Jamesville's housing has evidently been getting to the four winds. If the number of builders who call daily at the Chamber of Commerce is any criterion.

M. R. Metfats of the Antigo firm of Metfats Bros. was in the city yesterday. He took a trip through the outlying districts and interviewed bankers and contractors. The up-state firm has just completed a group of 25 homes at Two Rivers.

A number of other contractors have been in the city lately, the majority of whom have been most concerned in investigation of financial backing for projects here.

The membership of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce has passed the 5,500 mark.

Approximately 8,000 immigrants arrived at New York within 48 hours on December 27.

The Strange Case of Cavendish

By RANDALL FARRISH
Author of "The Devil's Own,"
"My Lady of the North," Etc.

(Copyright by Randall Farrish.)

He read the lines over again, his lips emitting a low whistle. His eyes darkened with sudden appreciation. It had been a trick, then, a bit of play-acting. But how? Was not this rather the real fraud—this sudden change of heart? This note might have a sinister purpose, be intended to deceive. Not he would not believe this. All his old lurking faith in her came back in a flash of revelation. He would continue to believe in her trust her, feel that some worthy purpose had influenced her strange action. And, above all, he would be at the lever bridge on the hour when Timmons returned.

"What do I owe you, old man?" he said to the bill collector and in the best of humor, careful to tell the proprietor that he was leaving for his mine and might not return for several days. He possessed confidence that Timmons would make no secret of this in Haskell after his departure. He was glad to note that Timmons observed him as he passed the Good Luck saloon and went tramping down the dusty road.

"The only carriage belonging to the town liveries passed soon after his arrival, evidently bound for the station, and from his covert he recognized Reaton looking over his shoulder. This must mean that the man expected arrivals on the afternoon train. Important arrivals whom he feared to honor. There was no sign, however, of Miss Donovan; the time was up, yet no evidence of her approach.

Westcott waited patiently, arguing to himself that her delay might be caused by her desire to get Benton out of the way before she could be turned down the path to the bridge, and saw her leaving over the rail, starting at the rippling water.

"Why," he exclaimed in surprise, "how long have you been here?"

"Several minutes," and she turned to face him. "I was waiting until the bridge passed before coming out of the hotel. I took the footpath from the hotel."

The lady smiled, lifting her eyes to his face. "There is," she answered, "A perfectly satisfactory one, I believe; but this place is too pretty to tell."

"There is a rock seat below, just beyond the clump of willows, quite out of sight from the hotel," he suggested. "Perhaps you would go with me there?"

"What trail is that?" she asked. "It leads to mine up the canyon. It is not included, but is not greatly traveled; the main trail is farther east."

"She walked to the edge of the bridge and permitted him to assist her down the bank. There was something of reserve about her manner, which prevented Westcott from feeling altogether at ease. Neither broke the silence between them until they reached the flat boulder and had found seats in the shelter of overhanging trees. Then she turned toward him questioningly.

"I was very rude," she said, "but you will excuse me when I explain the cause. I had to act as I did or else lose my hold entirely on that man—your uncle."

"I do not need to understand," he answered gallantly. "It is enough that you say so."

"No, it is not enough. I value your friendship, Mr. Westcott, and I need your advice."

"You may feel confidence in me," she said. "I do not intend to tell you anything that I do not wish to tell you. But I have told you that I am a newspaper woman, a special writer on the New York Star."

"It is very strange that I met you first of all—for it seems that the case is of personal interest to you."

"To me? Why, that is hardly likely, if it originated in New York."

"It did," she drew in a sharp breath—"for it originated in killing the murder of Frederick Cavendish."

"The murder of Cavendish! He has been killed?"

"Yes, at least that is what everyone believed, except possibly one man—his former valet. His body was found lying dead on the floor of his private apartment, the door of which was open, the money and papers missing. The coroner's jury brought in a verdict of murder on these facts."

"But when was this?"

"I had gripe, followed by pneumonia. It left me with a terrible soreness in my chest, and so weak and nervous I could neither eat nor sleep. I had a chill every morning."

"One day a young man told me how Milks Emulsion had got him out of bed and into his usual state of health. He said it was reduced to a skeleton and given up by the doctors. So I tried it. It built me up, gave me back my appetite and health. Step by step, better than I have for years, am doing all my work again and feeling like a new man."

"The beauty about Milks Emulsion is that it doesn't wear out like most things, and it is pleasant to take. It is a food as well as a medicine and builds up the blood and tissues. I surely put new blood in my veins and had the healthiest color I have ever had."

"Mrs. M. Washburn, El Centro, Cal."

"It costs nothing to try Milks Emulsion. It will build you up more quickly, more surely than anything else. Milks Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective natural bowel action, promotes appetite and puts the digestive organs to work and relieves in one day the chronic stomach-relief."

"This is the only solid emulsion made so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream."

"No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you. If it does not put you to bed and if it is not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Free trial bottle and promptly shipped. The Milks Emulsion is sold everywhere."

Was Badly Run-Down From Pneumonia

Mrs. Washburn quickly regained her strength and flesh.

"I had gripe, followed by pneumonia. It left me with a terrible soreness in my chest, and so weak and nervous I could neither eat nor sleep. I had a chill every morning."

"The Milks Emulsion is sold everywhere."

She gave the date and he studied over it.

"The same day he should have received my telegram," he said gravely. "That's why the poor fellow never answered. He turned to her suddenly. 'But what became of my others,' he asked, 'and all the letters I wrote?'"

"That is exactly what I want to learn. They must have been delivered to his cousin, John Cavendish. I'll tell you all I know, and then, perhaps, between us, we may be able to figure it out."

Briefly and clearly she set before him the facts she and Willis had been able to gather: the will, the connection between Earlright and John and Frederick, the visit of John to Earlright's office, the suspicion of Valois that the murdered man was not Cavendish, and finally, the conversation heard in Steinway's, the torn telegram, and the meeting between Celeste La Rue and Earlright.

When she had finished, Westcott sat, chin in hand, turning the evidence over in his mind. "Do you believe," Frederick Cavendish is dead?" he asked suddenly.

Westcott struck his hand down on the table, his eyes glowing dangerously.

"Well, I don't," he exclaimed. "I believe he is still alive. My theory is that this was all carefully contrived by that circumstances contrived them to act quickly before they were entirely ready. Two unexpected occurrences hurried them into action."

"He leaned forward, stirred by his earnestness."

"What?"

"The quarrel in the restaurant, leading to the making of the will," he answered gravely, "and my telegram. The two things fit together exactly. He must have received my first message that same night. In my judgment, he was glad of some excuse to leave New York and depart. His quarrel with John, coupled with his disgust of the company he kept, caused him to draw up this intended rickety will for the club intending to pick up and take the first train."

"And was killed before he could do so?"

"Possibly; but if the dead man had no scar on his chest he was not Frederick Cavendish; he was an impostor; some poor victim deceived by substituted hands of his facial resemblance. My belief is that Fred returned to his apartments, took what money he required, and walked and departed without a word to anyone. He often did things like that hastily on the spur of the moment."

"But what happened afterward?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Dinner Stories

"This," smiled the fond young wife, as she passed a plate of pudding to her husband, "is cottage pudding. I made it myself."

"Would you?" she asked, delighted.

"Yes, I can taste the plaster and the wall paper."

The husband tasted it.

"I'd have known it was cottage pudding," he returned.

"Henry's father was a golf enthusiast; therefore Henry knew all about the game. One time he was asked: 'Henry, do you know that play golf always yell "fore" instead of "lookout" or some such thing?'"

"Henry thought for a moment before he answered, and then he said: 'I don't know, but I've heard of a young sister, who was taking too long to yell "fore" and that sounds so much like "two-two" that they just add them together and yell "four."'"

"So you were fishing yesterday, Rastus?"

"Yes, huh, so I was. Who did tell you that?"

"Yer, sash, I saw Rastus. I saw you fishing in a boat."

"No, shuh, yer wrong; I never fished in a boat."

"I saw you with my own eyes, Rastus, and you were fishing in a boat."

"You certainly seed wrong, boss. I was sittin' in de boat, but I was fishin' in de river."

A native of Ireland naturalized recently at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., swore allegiance to the United States of America and the republic of Ireland.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover said to the Bryn Mawr students: "I am not in favor of Hoover clubs, since I do not approve of my husband's running for the presidency."

While the "Overall club" at Birmingham, Ala., was strenuously striving to enlist new members, it was advanced the price of overall trousers from $2 to $6 a pair.

At a recent auction in New York, a small silver cup used by General Washington during the Revolutionary war sold for $1,650. A silver teapot, owned by Mrs. Washington at Mt. Vernon, and bearing her initials, brought $1,050.

THIS HOUSE CAN GO ANYWHERE

A house constructed on this original design will look well in any residential district. True, the dwelling is not elaborate, but it has a dignified simplicity which spells good taste and refinement.

Note how the roof angles of the main building and the porch harmonize—a truly artistic effect.

A feature which the "better half" will appreciate is the immense store room upstairs with its double windows.

All of the rooms are large and unusually well lighted.

McCoys Here for Big Week-End Games With Samson

EYES OF STATE ON RESULTS OF CLASH

Dumont to Twirl for Sammies
—Prexy McCoy Has Not
His Man Yet for Opening Battle.

Though the weather is a trifling cool, fans of Janesville and hereabouts have not let up in their interest in the games of the Samson team. This afternoon at 3 o'clock the locals open with the McCoys at Milwaukee and again tomorrow will battle with the supply company outfit from the Cream City.

Victories and two defeats on the books, the Sammies, according to the dope that flows out of Milwaukee, are looked to as one of the strongest teams in the middle-west and a dangerous opponent. "Chances are about even that the Iron Men will come out ahead in the week-end."

McCoy's "Black Horse" Dumont will most likely take the hill for the Tractors. This kind of weather is more suitable to his liking. George is one of the chaps that wants to either chit-chat or bluff his way through. "Slim" Walsh is ready for the hurling job. His showing of last week predicts a pitcher's duel between him and the other. Most likely man to pitch for the McCoys on Sunday. There is something of a question who will lead the visitors today. Prexy Jack McCoy is reluctant and merely says that he has a pair of cracks to choose from.

Big Crowd Expected.
A record breaking crowd is looked for at the field tomorrow. News of the great ball played here last week has gone far and wide and will very likely draw many of the folks from nearby. The excellent card is a further magnet.

Never before has Janesville had a chance to see so many former big leaguers, past or present, on the same field. The crowd will be shown them today and tomorrow.

Manager George Ferring came back this morning from Chicago, got some new dope up his sleeve, but is not ready to spring it.

The real class of the Samson team will be coming to the fore from now on as the boys get better acquainted with each other's style of battle.

PAUL JONES PILOT GETS GIFT OF $5,000
Louisville, Ky., May 15.—Piloting a winner in a Derby brings its reward. Jockey Paul Jones, who rode Paul Jones to the front in the forty-sixth renewal of the Kentucky classic, was presented with $5,000 by Capt. Hal Parr, owner of the famous little gelding. Rice divided the sum with Clarence Kummer, who rode Blazes, the other Parr entry. Before the race, Parr offered Jones a little gift. Jones, who rode Jones to this extent, so they decided to split it evenly. This is the largest amount ever given a jockey for riding a winner in Kentucky.

SCHOOL LEAGUE IS TIED AGAIN

Play-Off for Second Keeps St. Pat's and Lincoln With Same Standing—Adams May Lose First Place.

Light	W.	L.	Pct.
Adams	5	3	.625
Lincoln	7	4	.636
St. Patrick's	7	5	.583
Washington	7	5	.583
Garfield	3	3	.500
Douglas	0	6	.000

First play-off in the four-way tie of the grammar schools basketball league, lightweight class, for second place, resulted yesterday in a continuation of the tie between the St. Patrick's and the Lincoln schools. This came about when St. Pat's put one over on Garfield 6 to 0 and Lincoln defeated Washington 4-0. The Adams school had previously copped first place.

Great Mix-Up
As the results now stand, a victory by either St. Patrick's or Lincoln in the next play-off will result in one of the teams going into a tie for first place with the Adams school. Such a condition, is creating a mountain of curiosity and keenest interest in the closeness of the race. In the event that Adams may have to play off with one of the other schools for first place, there will be a tremendous crowd of boys and girls at the "Y" to watch the battle.

Garfield Has Only Four
Such a mix-up affair has seldom been known in the history of sports in this city. However, it will decide beyond the shadow of doubt, the strongest team in the race. In yesterday's game, substitutes were used in each fight. Garfield, which has been a game fighter, played with only four men.

Madison, May 15.—Wisconsin's greatest interscholastic track and field meet is to be held in Madison May 22 under the auspices of the athletic department of the University of Wisconsin. It is expected that 25 schools will be represented. This will be Wisconsin's 36th annual meet, the first being held in Madison, June 8, 1885, when 10 schools were represented.

Last year 22 high schools took part. Milwaukee West Side High school winning. Getchell of Merrill High School won individual honors coping off six firsts.

New Classification System.
This year a new system has been inaugurated for classification. Schools with an enrollment of 350 or more will be put in class "A", while schools with an enrollment of less than 350 will be put in class "B". This is to put the meet on a more equal basis and give the smaller schools an equal chance.

Elaborate plans have been made by the "W" club for the entertainment of the contestants that will be entertained by the various fraternities while here.

The first number on the program will be a baseball game between the University of Wisconsin and Purdue University. This is one of Wisconsin's important home games. Following the game the fraternities will entertain their guests at dinner at their respective chapter houses. One of the features will be the University field meet for Military Academies which will include Culver, St. Johns, Northwestern and Shattuck. This meet will be held at 9:30 Saturday.

At 9:30 Saturday the interscholastic tennis tournament opens, and at the same time the Regatta (boat race) will take place. At 10:30 there will be a sight seeing trip around Madison and its lakes.

Probably the biggest feature on the program will be the University circus, an annual event at 10:30 in the morning and 7:30 in the evening. Meet opens at 1:30.

At 11:00 o'clock the second round of the interscholastic tennis tournament will be started and at that same time the Regatta (boat race) will start.

At 1:30 the interscholastic track and field meet will start. At 2:30 there will be a tennis tournament between the University of Wisconsin and the University of Wisconsin (single). The presentation of medals will be at 4:30 at which time the Wisconsin vs. Northwestern tennis tournament for doubles will start.

Plans have been made for a special entertainment for the visitors and the final performance of the circus will be presented at 7:30 in the evening.

CUBS WHIP BOSTON; DODGERS WIN IN 14TH

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Winning its fifth straight game, the Chicago Cubs yesterday defeated Boston 7-4 in the opener of the series at the Windy city. Boston outbats the Cubs two to one, but the wildness of Rudolph, who replaced Scott in the seventh, gave Chicago the victory.

What's up with the Dodgers is a mystery. They never were so long winded in the City of Churches before—except the parsons, perhaps. Yesterday, the Brooklyn team won a 14 inning game with St. Louis in a pitching duel between Grimes and Gooden 5-4. With two out, the Superbas came across with the winning run.

Outfitting the Reds three to one, the Phillies, nevertheless, could not be yesterday. The final score was 4-3. Reuther was put out of the game in the seventh for disputing a decision. Eller took his place and was knocked out in the ninth.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Cold, rain and wet grounds stopped three games yesterday. The only game played was between Detroit and Washington and was won by the Senators 9-5. The contest was seasaw, being copped in the ninth.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION
Taking off with a four run lead in the first inning, the Brewers turned around yesterday and with gentlemanly grace handed the game to Indianapolis in a silver platter 8-1. Milwaukee used two pitchers, Howard and Schulz; the Indians, three, Flaherty, Murray and Cavet and each had a few extras thrown in here and there.

RED SOX PLAYERS START AT 7 SUNDAY

Time for starting from Janesville for the game at Racine tomorrow has been changed, according to an announcement made by the management of the Red Sox today. All Red Sox are asked to be at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow at 7 o'clock sharp. The following are affected: Jackson, c; Berger, p; Britt, ss; Doran, 1b; Miller, 2b; McQuinley, 3b; Roberts, if; Fleming, cf; Gordon, rf; Gordon, and Roberts.

The game is with the Racine Specials.

Chicago, May 15.—Despite adverse weather of recent weeks which has made rigid training impossible, six western conference track and field teams will go into action today. The three dual meets today are expected to furnish valuable experience for the conference meet at Ann Arbor, June 4 and 5, and the Olympic try-out held June 15.

The Michigan team, which was badly beaten by Illinois last Saturday, meets Chicago today on Stagg field here. The Wolverines will be without the aid of Captain Carl Johnson.

Coach Harry Gill will send his Illinois team, winners of the indoor conference meet, and favorites for the outdoor title against Wisconsin at Madison today. Indiana and Ohio will meet at Columbus with the Ohio athletes expected to win.

Madison.—Mrs. John Wilkinson, 71 years old, is critically ill at her home here. Her children are withholding from her news of the sensational leap to death by her son Thomas, in Chicago, when he jumped from the ninth floor of the city hall to the sidewalk.

OAK PARK FAVORITE IN BIG TRACK MEET

Chicago, May 15.—Oak Park high school, winner of the inter scholastic meet at Beloit, is a favorite in today's interscholastic track and field meet at Lake Forest college in which 215 athletes from 21 Illinois and Wisconsin high schools are entered. In the absence of the Chicago University Prep men, the Lake Forest event today is regarded as the chief event of the kind for schools of this territory.

North Division and West Division High schools of Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha will be the Badger state's best bets against the well balanced Oak Park squad.

YANKS MUST GET NEW GROUNDS AFTER THIS SEASON—McGRAW

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 15.—The New York American league baseball club will not use the Polo grounds for its New York City games after the close of this season, according to an announcement yesterday by Manager McGraw of the New York Yankees. The lease held by the New York Americans will expire at that time, McGraw said, and will not be renewed.

New York, May 15.—"If we are ordered off the Polo grounds it will mean that our National league rivals will go back on their word to the Yankees," said Col. Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York American league club today.

THREE CONFERENCE TRACK MEETS TODAY

Chicago, May 15.—Despite adverse weather of recent weeks which has made rigid training impossible, six western conference track and field teams will go into action today. The three dual meets today are expected to furnish valuable experience for the conference meet at Ann Arbor, June 4 and 5, and the Olympic try-out held June 15.

Autobiography of Black Hawk

Our women received bad accounts from the women that had been raising corn at the new village—the difficulty of breaking the new prairie with hoes—and the small quantity of corn raised. We were nearly in the same situation in regard to the latter, it being the first time I ever knew our people to be in want of provisions. I prevailed upon some of the Rock river village, Ke-o-kuck, to return with us. I hoped that we would get would not return to the Rock river village, but we would go to Washington to settle our affairs with our Great Father. I visited the agent at Rock Island. He was displeased because we had returned to our village, and told me that we must remove to the west of the Mississippi. I told him plainly that we would not. I was told that the interpreter at his house, who would not do as the agent had directed me. I then went to see the trader, and upbraided him for buying our lands. He said that if he had not purchased them, some person else would, and that if our Great Father would, make an exchange with us, he would willingly give up the land he had purchased to the government. This I thought was fair, and began to think that he had not acted as badly as I had suspected. We again repaired to our lodges, and built others, as most of our village had been burnt and destroyed. Our women selected small patches to plant corn, (where the whites had not taken them within their fences) and worked hard to raise something for our children to subsist upon, to remain upon the lands sold, and that the government would force us to leave them. There was but a small portion, however, that had been sold; the balance remaining in the hands of the government, we claimed the right (if we had no other) and worked hard to raise something for our children to subsist upon, to remain upon the lands sold, and that the government would force us to leave them. There was but a small portion, however, that had been sold; the balance remaining in the hands of the government, we claimed the right (if we had no other) and worked hard to raise something for our children to subsist upon, to remain upon the lands sold, and that the government would force us to leave them.

I heard that there was a great chief on the Wabash, and sent a party to get his advice. They informed him that we had not sold our village. He assured them that if we had not sold the land on which our village stood, our Great Father would not take it from us. I started early to Malden to see the chief of my British Father, and told him my story. He gave the same reply that the chief on the Wabash had given me; he said that if we had not sold the land, it would remain peaceably in our hands, and would not be disturbed. This assured me that I was right, and determined me to not sell, as I had promised my people.

I returned from Malden late in the fall. My people were gone to their hunting ground, whither I followed. Here I learned that they had been badly treated all summer by the whites; and that a treaty had been held at Prairie du Chien. Ke-o-kuck and some of our people attended it, and found out that our Great Father had exchanged a small strip of the land that was ceded by Junsh-qua-me and his party, with the Pottowatomies, for a portion of their land, near Chicago; and that the object of this treaty was to get it back again; and that the United States had agreed to exchange it with the Pottowatomies, for a portion of their land, near Chicago; and that the object of this treaty was to get it back again; and that the United States had agreed to exchange it with the Pottowatomies, for a portion of their land, near Chicago; and that the object of this treaty was to get it back again.

Here I was again puzzled to find out how the white people reasoned; and began to doubt whether they had any standard of right and wrong.

Communication was kept up between myself and the Prophet. Runners were sent to the Arkansas, Red River and Texas—on the subject of our lands, but a secret mission, which I am not, at present, permitted to explain.

It was related to me, that the chiefs and headmen of the Foxes had been invited to Prairie du Chien, to hold a council to settle the differences existing between them and the Sioux. That the chiefs and headmen, amounting to nine, started for the place designated, taking with them their women—and were met by the Neomones and Sioux, near the Wisconsin, and all killed, except one man. Having understood that the whole matter was published shortly after it occurred, and is known to the white people, I will say no more about it.

I would here remark, that our pastimes and sports

Delegates Rank to Be Cut to Bone for Convention
Chicago, May 14.—Instructions from the committee in charge of the republican national convention here next month, notifying national committeemen to cut down their delegations to the authorized number, were on their way today. In at least 10 states records here show, extra delegates have been chosen with fractional votes assigned to them.

No more than 334 delegates seats can or will be placed, said L. W. Henley, secretary of the convention committee. "National committee-men have been informed that the state delegations must decide within their own ranks who will occupy the state's seats."

Oaksho.—The saw-mill of the W. J. Campbell Lumber Co. at Holtzer, was completely destroyed by fire. The origin is believed to have been from accidental causes as there is no timbermen's strike at that place and no labor troubles.

OPERA SINGER AND JEWELLED CAP SHE SAVED FROM REDS

Mme. Lydia Lipkowska.

Here is one of the most valuable of Mme. Lydia Lipkowska's jeweled possessions which she saved in her flight from the Reds in Russia. When Mme. Lipkowska fled from Petrograd to escape the Bolsheviks, all she was able to save of her wardrobe was some of her jewels. The cap she is wearing in the photograph is framed with pearls and a pendant is suspended under the chin. The pendant, she says, is the only one to exist.

Grand Rapids, Wis., May 15.—P. H. Dodge, president of the International Paper company and the Mergenthaler Linotype company of New York, slept in the Wood county jail last night and left town this morning none the wiser. Mr. Dodge was here on business, and when he went to a hotel for a room it was over crowded. The bellboy escorted Mr. Dodge to the county jail, where he spent the night.

BRINGING IN THE SPRING WILD FLOWERS.

Leaves, Stems, Buds, and Blossoms of Spring's Harbingers Are of Exquisite Delicacy, and Serve for Drawing Studies—How to Secure Anemones, Wild Columbine, Hepatica, and Others of "Titania's Garden."

(Written for the United States School Garden Army.)

The common anemone, or wind flower, and its cousin, the rue anemone, are likely to have their roots so deep in the soil that removal is difficult, but occasionally in rich leaf mold or in rocky pockets one can find specimens which are easily transplanted. The delicate flowers are well worth watching near at hand where one can see the opening of the fragile buds. The same is true of hepatica, or liver leaf, often the earliest of all these harbingers of spring.

The wild columbines are native to rocky ledges, where they often have a precarious root hold, from which they are readily dislodged with roots intact. Get the plants from such situations before the buds have developed into stems and you can set them into attractive flower jars, in which they bloom profusely. Leaves, stems, buds, and blossoms are of exquisite delicacy of line and texture and serve admirably for drawing studies. Such flowers that bloom indoors are really more delicate than those which grow in the open. To be buffeted by wind and rain. In the east, the Canada columbine is the common wild species, with beautiful tones of red and yellow. Farther west, various other sorts occur.

If you have a broad, low flower bowl, 8 or 10 inches in diameter, take the bowl with you on a stroll along some brook where the yellow roots of the goldthread penetrate the moss in all directions. Take up moss and soil and place carefully in the bowl, putting in first a leafy mold from beneath the trees. Take it to school and keep the plants moist but not too wet. The interesting white flowers will soon develop, and are likely to puzzle you if you attempt to distinguish them.

Various other spring wild flowers may be brought in a similar way. Those mentioned are the most available in eastern regions, though to advantage, while in other regions there are many other species awaiting similar attention.

PRIVATE GARAGES

A Pro-Slate Garage solves for you the problem of housing your car satisfactorily, immediately, and at a low cost. We can deliver to your home, on a few hours notice, one of these garages, of just the right dimensions to fit your requirements. It will come to you in sections ready to erect, quickly and substantially.

Distinctive

A Pro-Slate Garage presents an appearance of unusual beauty, and harmonizes perfectly with any setting. The walls are of a rough, stucco-like material, in a beautiful cross-grained shade, paneled off by English timber. The floor is a crushed slate, dull Indian red, a color combination that is unusually attractive.

Fire and Weather Proof

The outside material being made of crushed

slate rock makes these garages fire-safe. The construction itself renders them weather and windproof. There are no cracks in the Pro-Slate walls to open up in dry weather and let in the dust. The beautiful stucco-like finish never requires painting, thus eliminating the expense of upkeep.

The woodwork is already painted; the roofing is a part of the roof panels themselves; the doors and windows are all glazed; and all hardware is included.

You must see Pro-Slate Garage to really appreciate its wonderful beauty and substantial construction. The Extra long single Garage is illustrated above. Other models are the Double Garage, the Standard Single, and the Ford Special.

It will be well worth your while to call and inspect our exhibit. Come today, if you can.

Crow-Elkhart Cars

To be desirable the motor car of today must have POWER, Dependability and Personality.

Power and Dependability you must have. Personality you SHOULD and can HAVE.

In the new Crow-Elkhart you will find all of these. You have in addition to all this, your choice of ten different colors, with upholstery to match, giving it that touch of individuality so much to be desired in the selection of a new car.

Quality That Endures

Certainly the fact that many fleet owners all over the country are now making GMC Trucks the standard for all their hauling equipment is a good indication of GMC quality.

Moreover, it tells of the way in which GMC owners are looked after by both dealer and parent organization. For the big motor truck buyer demands service as well as quality.

ZENITH CARBURETOR

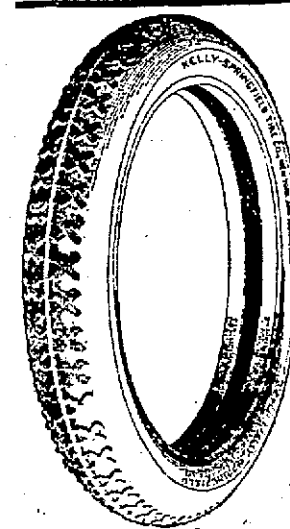

World Altitude Record
Made in Zenith-Equipped Plane

On February 27th, Major R. W. Schroeder, chief test pilot at McCook field, Dayton, O., performed the most daring and sensational flying feat since the trans-Atlantic flight of the Zenith-equipped "NC-4". Soaring into the unexplored regions of the skies until his oxygen tanks became exhausted and his eyeballs were frozen by the extreme cold, he attained an altitude of 36,020 feet, almost seven miles, thus establishing a new world record which is practically a mile higher than the highest altitude hitherto reached.

On this remarkable air voyage Major Schroeder's plane was driven by a Liberty Engine, equipped with Zenith Carburetors.

In the air or on the land, at any altitude or any temperature, record-making achievements have proved Zenith dependability.
